Mobile technology advanced in a very powerful way. These small devices were growing and having more and more prominence in our lives. Almost without realizing it. First they were simply to receive or make calls, then they added text messages, polyphonic sounds, and suddenly internet access. And there everything changed.
Since it is possible to access the network from a mobile device, the function of these terminals has totally changed. Now in addition to being a device with which we can talk to other people, it is possible to access emails, videos, images, social networks and everything we can imagine. The development of games and applications has been an unprecedented event. There is a practically infinite catalog with which to get hold of all kinds of programs.

For fans of video games this has been one of the best opportunities and great changes in recent times. The huge number of free games, launches from major studios and the arrival of prominent franchises to small devices has brought them the chance to experience deliveries at any hour. And many of them of quality, without having to envy anything to the console or computer titles.
In order to enjoy these products, a good performance of the mobile for games is needed. Not only is it necessary to have a phone in good technical condition, but also the performance of the software has to be efficient. And while this sounds complex for most users, there are applications to play better.
Meet RAM & Game Booster. The app is available in the Android and iOS stores. You can download it for free in its trial edition or pay the paid version of $ 0.59. Both options will be very useful to improve the performance of your mobile phone. The study that is in charge of developing it is Augustro. The firm has other products such as: Augustro VPN, Cleaner, Intruder Catcher and Calculator Locker.

Using RAM & Game Booster will help you to configure your device so that you can run and run your games in the fastest way. The program is responsible for cleaning, organizing and enhancing the operation of your phone's RAM memory. RAM stands for "Random Access Memory" or random access memory. What this part of the devices basically does is take care of their speed. It is present in consoles, computers and mobile phones. If you have occupied a lot of RAM space while you work or play, the device will work slower.
With RAM & Game Booster you will have at your disposal an app that will guide the use of memory to improve the performance of your games. To achieve this objective, it has a variety of options that will allow you to choose what to use, how and when the RAM memory.

You can schedule it to be activated by intervals or choose which apps to give priority to when using mobile resources. You can also choose from a list of your favorite games how to use from the app.
Among other advantages of RAM & Game Booster you will find that it allows you to configure the use of resources in different ways. Not only choosing manually but also according to the percentage of performance achieved, time intervals or according to the activity of the screen.
The program presented by Augustro also offers you a Widget to place on your main screen, notification system, priority lists, clear graphics about the performance of your RAM and much more.
In times where mobile games are experiencing exponential growth, getting the best performance from your device is very important. Not only is it necessary that the graphic quality is the best, but you also have to look for speed. RAM memory is the fundamental factor in all this and that is why RAM & Game Booster will give you the help you need.
