

Review The Sims

ELECTRONIC ARTS

If you like to play people who lead a calm daily life, The Sims is a game created for you. Sims is a life simulation game that is very popular in this genre. You can create your characters and customize everything from their characteristics and how they look and even how they will meet their loved ones

The Sims series will continue to be a phenomenon until there is a more realistic life simulator, until now there is practically no competition ... And that is never a healthy situation. The Sims, Maxis' best work, is a living example.

When the Sims was still emerging on the horizon, it seemed to all fans of the series a new beginning that would surpass everything we've seen in this game so far. These hopes are no wonder, because we are in a time of revolutionary technological change, so the Sims 3, with its immutable gameplay formula and outdated graphics, seemed to be the ideal candidate for radical transformation.

Breeders, however, still prefer evolution, and therefore the slow process of improving the series. And it wouldn't be so bad like that, if it weren't for the complete lack of competition. The pace of change more than snails, and thus criticized the dosage of the game content, in the Sims 4 came to the absurd ...

Is a new plot in the series worth worrying about? Of course, because the game is still the same phenomenon as growing in our eyes and becoming more attractive with each new edition ... just looking at the initial dose of pleasure served by Maxis, the real, really playable The Sims 4 can be we wait maybe only in a year or two.

Surely, the Sims scams can be said to provide even more entertainment. They give us many opportunities to influence the world of the sims. At the same time, while the Sims requirements don't impress anyone today, it's worth getting to know them before playing.

Sims 4 is a life simulation game which means that you basically play the role of god in this game and create your own people called Sims. You can make them have families, you choose their jobs, you choose their personalities, you can make them know the love of their life or you can separate them. Actually, you will have endless opportunities and lots of fun.

What can you do to customize your Sims?

Basically on the main screen you have some options including the very useful menu and if you click on Lessons. Usually for those playing the game for the first time, those lessons will be activated. If you go to Game Options, you can make changes to the resolution options, you can also change your screen type if you are running on a lower system, you may want to reduce some of these settings or if you are on a higher running system. can make them taller.

You can also change your audio settings from there. You can try turning on the Sims 3 camera. Many players consider this to be much easier to use if you have a dough wheel, we recommend you take it before you start. Just press Apply changes and you're done. You can start with creating a branded home and this will take you to a really cool part of the Sims 4 called Create a Sim. Do you have to decide who they will be? What personality will they have and etc.

You can also give Sim a name, you can make him male or female. You can change your ages as a senior, junior, teen, or child. You can change your voice or give them a walking style and the next important thing is to create their personality. His personality is made up of an aspiration with a burner lane and then three traits (on the honey cell menu). Your traits will influence how your sim works in the game, for example if you have a Creative Sim they will be very good at creative activities like painting or music. Whereas a genius Sim will be really good at logical skill. Your sims will develop skills over time.

Suppose your Sim wants to meet his soulmate, who will learn a lot, and then you can choose from a variety of traits like romantic or flirtatious, just to name a few. You can also randomize the appearance or you can run away, creating what your mind imagines this person to be. The best thing about this is that you can click and drag different parts of their body to change their body type and if you click on their body you can make them more tender or slimmer, you can make them more muscular or you can make them have no muscles absolutely. You can spend the whole day to create your sims.
